

Spotlight on Curaçao

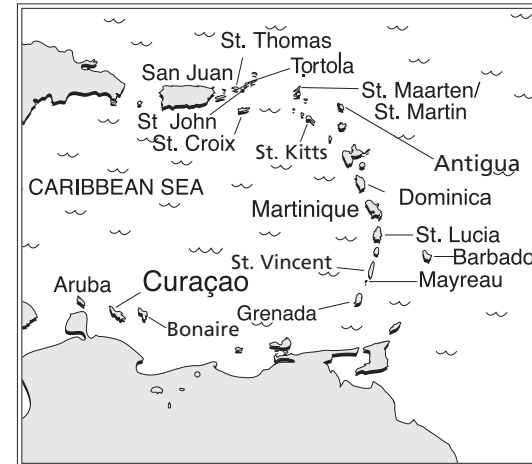

HISTORY

No one is sure when Curaçao's first residents arrived. Perhaps the first settlers were the Caiquetios Indians who settled most of the Caribbean. Anthropologists speculate that the fierce, cannibalistic Caribs had conquered the coast of South America, forcing the Caiquetios to paddle for their lives from Venezuela to Curaçao. If they were seeking safety, they found it. And they established the first regular trade route to Curaçao, bringing food and materials from Venezuela. Alonso de Ojeda and geographer Amerigo Vespucci were the first Europeans to find Curaçao, on a voyage from Spain in 1499.

Curaçao did not play a role in plans for colonization until 1527, when a group of treasure-hunting colonists arrived. They lived quietly and uneventfully, raising cattle for hides and seeking gold in the desert. Their solitude ended in 1634 when the Dutch West India Company claimed Curaçao. They did so without striking a single blow, and the island soon prospered under Dutch rule. Curaçao became an important trading center. It was during this period that Willemstad, the capital, acquired its distinctive European look.

Curaçao existed tranquilly under Dutch rule, until 1915 – the year that the Royal Dutch/Shell Company built one of the world's largest refineries to process crude oil from Venezuela. Workers from around the world moved to Curaçao, turning Willemstad into a cosmopolitan city. Today, some 40 nationalities are represented on the island, which remains prosperous.

CAPITAL

The capital of Curaçao is Willemstad.

LOCATION

The island lies 35 miles north of Venezuela and 42 miles east of Aruba.

SIZE

Curaçao is the largest of the 5 islands that comprise the Netherlands Antilles. It is 38 miles long and 7.5 miles at its widest point.

POPULATION

Approximately 170,000 people live on the island of Curaçao.

LANGUAGE

Dutch is the official language. English, Spanish, and Papiamentu a local dialect, are also spoken throughout the island.

CURRENCY

The Netherlands Antilles florin, also called a guilder, is the official currency. United States dollars, travelers checks and credit cards are widely accepted.

TIME ZONE

Curaçao is on Atlantic Standard Time, one hour ahead of Eastern Standard Time. The ship may not always follow local time. Please adhere to the ship's time while in port.

TOURIST INFORMATION

The tourist information office is located in the downtown shopping area: Pietermaa - #19. Phone: 434-8200.

LOCAL FLAVORS

Curaçao's Dutch influence is evident in the local wares. From Delft china to fine linens and lace to wooden shoes, Dutch goods are the island's best buys. Resort wear with tropical and batik prints is also very popular. Curaçao is most famous for the bright blue Curacao liqueur made on the island.

DOCKING/TENDERING

The ship docks in Willemstad, Curaçao at the Mega Pier.

TRANSPORTATION

The basic means of transportation are taxis, which are easily identified by their sign of a "TX" on their license plates. They are metered and rates are based on a four passenger capacity. Each additional passenger pays 25% of the charged fee. It is advisable to agree on a rate before departure. Fairs from cruise terminal to Punda (downtown): approximately $12.

SHORE EXCURSIONS

Please check your ticket for the correct meeting time and location of your tour. Your cruise line representative will direct you to your transportation.

HOW TO GET TO TOWN

Willemstad's shopping area, called Punda, is about a 15 minute walk from the pier. Taxis are available at the pier.

SHOPPING

For decades, the leading activity on this island has been shopping. Best buys are found on luxury items such as Swiss watches, jewelry, English bone, china, porcelain and crystal. Don't leave Curaçao without trying their famous Curaçao liqueur. Curaçao is also known for its colorful Batik and Caribbean clothing. The main shopping streets are Heerenstraat, Breedestraat and Handelskade.

STORE HOURS

Recommended stores are open Monday through Saturday from 8:30 am to 6:00 pm, whenever a cruise ship is in port. On Sundays, recommended stores are open from 9:30 am to 1:30 pm.

EMERGENCY

In case of an emergency, dial 911 or 912 for an ambulance.
